St. Patrick's Day Trivia

You may know that St. Patrick used shamrocks to teach about the Trinity, but did you know these other facts about him?

- St. Patrick wasn't Irish. (His parents were Roman citizens living in either Scotland or Wales.)
- He was kidnapped and sold as a slave at age 16. After escaping 6 years later, he joined the monastery in England.
- March 17 is the date of St. Patrick's death, not his birth. He died in 461 A.D.
- The color originally associated with St. Patrick is blue, not green.
- The harp, not the shamrock, is the national symbol of Ireland.

Irish Humor

How can you tell if a Leprechaun likes your Jokes?
(He's Dublin over laughing.)

Why do you wear shamrocks on St. Patrick's Day?
(Because real rocks are too heavy.)

How should you greet someone on March 17?
(Irish you a happy St. Patrick's Day.)

Scripture Reading: Philippians 3:17-4:1

When you judge others, you do not define them, you define yourself.

—Earl Nightingale

When asked to identify the tallest mountain in the world, probably 99 percent of us would answer, “Mount Everest,” so-named for Sir George Everest, British surveyor general of India from 1830 to 1843. It is a good guess because Everest is certainly a well-known peak, and revered by local people in Nepal and Tibet. Its Tibetan name, Chomolungma, means “Goddess Mother of the World” or “Goddess of the Valley.” The Sanskrit name Sagarmatha means literally “Peak of Heaven.”

But is it the tallest mountain in the world? No.

True, at 29,035 feet, it is the tallest mountain above sea level. Yet, the tallest mountain when measured from its base to its peak is Mauna Kea in Hawaii. Above sea level, it is a mere 13,796 feet high. But if you include the 19,700 feet of this dormant volcano below sea level, the title of the world’s tallest peak is not Everest, but Mauna Kea at 33,496 feet. It’s not even close!

Humans are like the Mauna Kea volcano, or like icebergs: We only see a fraction of the real person. We see external features like height, weight, hair color, facial expressions, and smiles, but even “in laughter the heart is sad,” (Proverbs 14:13). We can’t see all of Mauna Kea, but we know that there is more than meets the eye.

We must remember this in our encounters with others. They are more than what we see.

So when we are tempted to judge others, to attribute motives and intentions to their actions, let’s remember that we can’t see most of who they are. This allows us to step back and be respectful, or perhaps, to at least give them the benefit of the doubt.

—Timothy Merrill

Prayer: Lord Jesus, it is true that sometimes I rush to judgment, when it would have been better to reserve judgment. Help me to remember that people are more than what they present to others to see. In your name. Amen.
